

THE OCTOBER VERDICT.

REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES UPHOLD.
THE MAJORITY IN OHIO ESTIMATED AT 22,000.
REPUBLICANS REJOICING AND PREPARING FOR HARD WORK—A POSSIBLE REPUBLICAN MAJORITY
OF 8,000 IN INDIANA—NINE CONGRESSMEN
ELECTED—DEMOCRATS DOWNCAST—MIRACLE
RETURNS FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

In Ohio the Republican majority is placed at 22,000, the estimate being made on full but unofficial returns from all except one county. Mr. Townsend, the Republican candidate for Secretary of State, ran behind the rest of the ticket. Preparations are making for meetings to celebrate the victory, and hard and vigorous work will be done until November.

Ex-Senator Dorsey telegraphs to THE TRIBUNE that nine Republican Congressmen have been elected in Indiana, and that the Hon. A. G. Porter's majority may reach 8,000. There is great gloom at the Democratic headquarters in Washington on account of the Indiana defeat. Mr. Bismarck is dejected, but threatens to show the Republicans some new tricks next month.

The returns from West Virginia are still meagre, and no estimate of the Democratic majority can be given. There have been Republican demonstrations at Johnston, N. Y., and Providence, R. I., in honor of the recent victories.

The feeling in Wall Street and on the Exchanges is one of intense satisfaction that there is now to be no "change" which can affect the prosperity of the country. Democrats, even, were rejoicing at this yesterday. General Garfield passed Tuesday quietly at his home in Mentor, Ohio, and was not at all excited over the returns.

REPUBLICAN BY 22,000 MAJORITY.
DEMOCRATS DEFEATED—REPUBLICANS READY FOR VIGOROUS WORK UNTIL NOVEMBER—CONFIDENTIAL RETURNS FROM ALL EXCEPT ONE COUNTY—REPUBLICAN GAINS OVER LAST YEAR.
(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—There was no abatement today of interest in the Indiana election. Citizens gathered in knots at every street corner, and all day long discussed the great victory, its causes and its effects. To Democrats it is not only a surprise but a mystery. They cannot account for it upon any reasonable hypothesis, and they will not come over to the Republican way of reasoning. The late and simple result as an unqualified endorsement of their way of stating the issues of the campaign. That is the sun and substance of it. Arrangements were made for a grand jubilation meeting to-morrow, but bad weather caused a postponement until Saturday evening. A proposition has been made to have similar demonstrations all over the State on the same day, shortly before the November election. It will be one of the grandest demonstrations of this great contest.

A comparison of the returns at the Republican and Democratic headquarters shows a difference of only 1,000 in the majority. At the Republican headquarters all of the eighty-eight counties except one have been heard from, and show Republican gains of 8,653, and Democratic gains of 6,978. The net Republican gain on the head of the ticket is 1,675. This added to Porter's majority of last year, 17,429, makes the majority this year 18,804. The Indiana candidates will go about 3,000 higher, electing the ticket by a round 22,000 majority. These figures are trustworthy. Mr. Townsend, the Republican candidate for Secretary of State, ran behind his ticket on account of the opposition of certain honor men, who opposed him because of his pronounced temperance views. Democratic also made a personal fight against the head of the ticket.

Many prominent Democrats are not so sanguine as Senator Thurman, and they are slowly admitting that the Presidential question is virtually settled. There is no disposition on the part of Republicans to let the campaign run itself during the coming three weeks, and the same view will be shared by Democrats. It has been manifested ever since the canvass opened.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The Republican State Committee have returns from eighty-four out of eighty-eight counties, which show Republican gains of 8,599, and Democratic gains of 6,781. The net Republican gain for Townsend, Secretary of State, is 1,818.

At the Democratic headquarters returns have been gathered from various sources, and according to these figures the Democratic gains for Lang, Secretary of State, are 8,903, and the gains for Townsend, Republican, are given as 6,114, a net Democratic gain of 2,789.

A DISPATCH FROM MR. DORSEY.
THE MAJORITY FROM 6,000 TO 8,000—NINE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.
(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—W. R. F. Treat is elected to Congress in the 11th District. This makes nine Republican Congressmen. The Legislature is Republican by fourteen majority. Porter's majority will not be less than 8,000; it may reach 8,000.

ENGLISH IN A QUEER ROLE.
HE IS TO DENY THAT HE HAS BEEN ASKED TO RESIGN FROM THE TICKET—HE KNOWS NO REASON WHY HE SHOULD RESIGN.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—A statement has been extensively published that there was great dissatisfaction among the Democrats with Mr. English, and that a conference of the leading Democrats had been held at which Mr. English was not present. At this meeting, it was stated, the subject of English's withdrawal from the ticket was discussed.

Mr. English pronounces the rumor of his withdrawal to be entirely unfounded. It has never been mentioned to him, and he knows of no reason why it should be. He says he confidently expects to be elected, and that Indiana will be for Hancock and English in November.

WEST VIRGINIA RETURNS.
REPORTS FROM ONLY A FEW COUNTIES—WHAT THE DEMOCRATS CLAIM AND WHAT THE REPUBLICANS CONCEDE—REPUBLICAN GAINS IN BELLEVILLE COUNTY.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 14.—Only a few counties in this State have reported in addition to those given yesterday. No reports of any consequence have been received from the Kanawha Valley region, where the Greenback vote was principally cast. The result of the vote in the State, therefore, is the merest guesswork. If the Greenback vote in the State does not exceed 15,000, Jackson (Democrat) will have a plurality for Governor of about 10,000. The Democrats here are claiming the State by 12,000 to 15,000.

The Chairman of the Republican State Committee concedes it by 8,000. In 1876 the Democratic majority in the State was upward of 14,000. The Republican gain since 1876 is 230 majority, a Democratic gain of 75 on the vote of four years ago. Grant County gives Sturgess (Democrat) 150 majority, a Democratic gain of 75 on the vote of four years ago. Grant County gives Sturgess 470 majority, a Republican gain of 39.

I will take several days to settle precisely how the State has gone, Melvin and McConnell (Republicans) are elected Judges in the First Circuit. The amendments to the Constitution are accepted by a large majority. The Legislature will be Democratic in both branches.

THANKING THE RANK AND FILE.
The following order was issued yesterday from the headquarters of the Garfield and Arthur Campaign Club of the Republican Central Committee: NEW-YORK, October 14, 1880.

Circular No. 8.
I—The public has taken place and the public has taken place. I—The public has taken place and the public has taken place. I—The public has taken place and the public has taken place.

particularly to the officers in command for their noble and self-sacrificing devotion to duty.

When all had said a special mention would be made of the noble and self-sacrificing devotion to duty of the officers in command for their noble and self-sacrificing devotion to duty.

By order, LLOYD ASHMEAD, Chief Marshal. General Charles A. Carleton, Chief Marshal.

Frederick G. Geisley, president of the Young Men's Republican Club, has prepared a circular of thanks in which he says:

"The gentlemen in line for the patients with which they endured the long hours, and the alacrity with which commands were executed by men accustomed to give and not receive them."

THE DEMOCRATS SAID.
GLOOM AT HEADQUARTERS IN WASHINGTON—BARNUM DOWNCAST, BUT THREATENING NEW TRICKS.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—It is difficult for the Democratic leaders to realize the magnitude of their defeat. Their headquarters are deserted by day and darkened by night. The few who venture to say anything simply echo the reported wail of Mr. Voorhees, "I am too sick to talk about the election. Our strongest counties fell disastrously below our expectations." For the present, the energies of the Democrats are paralyzed, and the managers say they will now await the action of the several members of the National Committee, which has been called at New-York on Saturday next.

A gentleman who travelled from Indianapolis to Harpersburg on the train with William H. Barnum, reports that the train was downcast. He heard the dispatches which were handed to him at many stations without a smile. He had dreamed to receive dispatches in the train at midnight, but his friends in Indianapolis sent none.

Senator McDonald was asked to send news to the Democratic Headquarters here, but he failed to do so. Mr. McDonald is reported to have been in the city, but he failed to do so. Mr. McDonald is reported to have been in the city, but he failed to do so.

There was some discussion as to what Mr. English meant by saying that the State could be carried by the Democrats. The Democrats are generally agreed that he meant that the State could be carried by the Democrats.

William H. Barnum, of Pennsylvania, who was acting as chairman of the Democratic National Committee in the absence of Senator Barnum, in the West, said that he had been in the city, but he failed to do so. William H. Barnum, of Pennsylvania, who was acting as chairman of the Democratic National Committee in the absence of Senator Barnum, in the West, said that he had been in the city, but he failed to do so.

"There seems to be no doubt that both Ohio and Indiana have gone Republican. The National Democratic Committee is much disappointed. It was expected that the State could be carried by the Democrats. The Democrats are generally agreed that he meant that the State could be carried by the Democrats."

General Henry B. Carrington, who passed through New-York Saturday on his way to Indiana to vote the Republican ticket, was in the city again yesterday and was met by a Tribune reporter.

"Indiana did right nobly, General," said the reporter.

"Indeed she did, indeed she did!" was the reply, "and there will be other States that will roll in surprise for the Democrats before we get through, too. I stopped over to visit General Garfield at Mentor yesterday, and you should have seen the dispatches that poured in upon him all day. The congratulations did not all come from the Northern States, either; Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Maryland, Virginia and other Southern States contributed a fair number of the good words sent over the lines. Why, there were dispatches from almost everywhere—from Savannah, Baltimore, Omaha, Memphis, Detroit, Dubuque, Knoxville, Tennessee, New-Orleans, San Francisco—just to name a few. As well refer you to a map of the United States for the names of the places. It was wonderful. Let me tell you the worst of a dispatch from New-Orleans: 'By the votes of Indiana and Ohio, the Solid South has assured the Solid South that it will help to elect a President who will be a man of his own mistakes.' A dispatch from Savannah said: 'Two Republican Congressmen are assured from Georgia' and dispatches received from Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland and other States indicated that the Solid South would be broken in November—both Delaware and Florida would be surely Republican, and probably Tennessee and North Carolina, with some hope for Virginia."

"Some of the dispatches were very bright and witty—I wish I had some of them to give you for publication; others were scribbled, or written in a ridiculous vein, expressing the belief that Providence was bringing America out of all her troubles. But all of the dispatches were full of the kindest congratulations to General Garfield, whose election in November, it was assumed, was now assured."

"And how did General Garfield receive all of this good news and these kind congratulations?"

"Well, although I am sure he felt very happy, he did not get up or talk as if anything unusual were going on. He kept the day to himself, and seemed to be the most disinterested person about the matter. He received the dispatches with the same calmness, simply saying: 'The elections I do not regard as personal to myself, but as indicating the purpose of the American people to make the traits of the war, to secure American manufacturers and to guarantee to every man of whatever race or color, equal rights with the white race and best.'"

"How quietly at Mentor his home does not seem like the home of a man with high political aspirations. He is in every respect a plain country home. He said nothing about the election, and I think, since he is proud of her son just now."

"How lively were the elections in Indiana?"

"Well, I don't know. Everything seemed to go quietly when I was in Indiana, but I think, since he is proud of her son just now."

"The tariff question is exerting a great influence in favor of the Republican party in Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. It is not so in New-York."

"Oh, yes; the people are fond of calling to mind General Garfield's great majority report from the Committee of Ways and Means at the last session of Congress, in which he protested that the House bill No. 1,188, 'A bill to regulate Customs duties on certain articles named therein,' would absolutely destroy the New-Jersey, Connecticut, Ohio and Illinois industries in pottery, ceramics and wools. Every manufacturing interest in New-England, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, and even in Delaware was saved by General Garfield's persistent pressure of his minority report. But you knew all that before—everybody knows it!"

THE DEMOCRATIC MOURNERS.
A WAKE AT THE HEADQUARTERS—ANOTHER ADDRESS ABOUT FRAUD—A SPECIAL FROM MR. ENGLISH.

The rooms of the Democratic National Committee in Fifth-ave. were surrounded in the deepest gloom yesterday. There was no consolation to be found there by those who called in search of it. When a Tribune reporter visited the place at noon, half a dozen men were seated in melancholy silence reading papers a week old. Each man looked as if he had been imperatively summoned to attend a funeral.

One of the persons in the place was asked if there had been any late dispatches from Indiana.

"No," said he, "not one; but we're summing up. The official figures will have to be taken."

This man, the chairman of the committee, but it was what Democratic inquiries received.

The members of the Executive Committee of the National Democratic Committee held a secret session in the afternoon to mourn over the loss of Indiana. Messrs. Barnum, Hewitt, Jonas and Wilson were the chief mourners. Senator Randolph, Governor Wiltz of Louisiana, and Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, were also present at the wake.

They said they were surprised at the result of Tuesday's elections, and all agreed that something must be done immediately. But each now found it difficult to suggest what that something should be. At Mr. Barnum had related his experience in Indiana, it was agreed that the only thing to be done was to go up and address to the voters. So a circular was written and addressed to the Democratic and Conservative voters of the country.

It states that the people were elected in 1876, and that, with the aid of the Republican party, they had elected a President who would be a man of his own mistakes. It also states that the Republican party had elected a President who would be a man of his own mistakes.

At a late hour of the evening a dispatch was received at Democratic National Headquarters: INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14, 1880.

To WILLIAM H. BARNUM.
In this crisis of our history, I have encountered the resources of the Republican party of the United States, and have seen the temporary defeat. In November we shall encounter the resources of the Democratic party of the United States, and we shall see the result.

This did not seem to offer much consolation to the Democrats, except the one of those connected with the committee was heard to say: "That's just like 'Bill' English to send a long dispatch here and there."

There was some discussion as to what Mr. English meant by saying that the State could be carried by the Democrats. The Democrats are generally agreed that he meant that the State could be carried by the Democrats.

William H. Barnum, of Pennsylvania, who was acting as chairman of the Democratic National Committee in the absence of Senator Barnum, in the West, said that he had been in the city, but he failed to do so.

"There seems to be no doubt that both Ohio and Indiana have gone Republican. The National Democratic Committee is much disappointed. It was expected that the State could be carried by the Democrats. The Democrats are generally agreed that he meant that the State could be carried by the Democrats."

General Henry B. Carrington, who passed through New-York Saturday on his way to Indiana to vote the Republican ticket, was in the city again yesterday and was met by a Tribune reporter.

"Indiana did right nobly, General," said the reporter.

"Indeed she did, indeed she did!" was the reply, "and there will be other States that will roll in surprise for the Democrats before we get through, too. I stopped over to visit General Garfield at Mentor yesterday, and you should have seen the dispatches that poured in upon him all day. The congratulations did not all come from the Northern States, either; Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Maryland, Virginia and other Southern States contributed a fair number of the good words sent over the lines. Why, there were dispatches from almost everywhere—from Savannah, Baltimore, Omaha, Memphis, Detroit, Dubuque, Knoxville, Tennessee, New-Orleans, San Francisco—just to name a few. As well refer you to a map of the United States for the names of the places. It was wonderful. Let me tell you the worst of a dispatch from New-Orleans: 'By the votes of Indiana and Ohio, the Solid South has assured the Solid South that it will help to elect a President who will be a man of his own mistakes.' A dispatch from Savannah said: 'Two Republican Congressmen are assured from Georgia' and dispatches received from Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland and other States indicated that the Solid South would be broken in November—both Delaware and Florida would be surely Republican, and probably Tennessee and North Carolina, with some hope for Virginia."

"Some of the dispatches were very bright and witty—I wish I had some of them to give you for publication; others were scribbled, or written in a ridiculous vein, expressing the belief that Providence was bringing America out of all her troubles. But all of the dispatches were full of the kindest congratulations to General Garfield, whose election in November, it was assumed, was now assured."

"And how did General Garfield receive all of this good news and these kind congratulations?"

"Well, although I am sure he felt very happy, he did not get up or talk as if anything unusual were going on. He kept the day to himself, and seemed to be the most disinterested person about the matter. He received the dispatches with the same calmness, simply saying: 'The elections I do not regard as personal to myself, but as indicating the purpose of the American people to make the traits of the war, to secure American manufacturers and to guarantee to every man of whatever race or color, equal rights with the white race and best.'"

"How quietly at Mentor his home does not seem like the home of a man with high political aspirations. He is in every respect a plain country home. He said nothing about the election, and I think, since he is proud of her son just now."

"The tariff question is exerting a great influence in favor of the Republican party in Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania. It is not so in New-York."

"Oh, yes; the people are fond of calling to mind General Garfield's great majority report from the Committee of Ways and Means at the last session of Congress, in which he protested that the House bill No. 1,188, 'A bill to regulate Customs duties on certain articles named therein,' would absolutely destroy the New-Jersey, Connecticut, Ohio and Illinois industries in pottery, ceramics and wools. Every manufacturing interest in New-England, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, and even in Delaware was saved by General Garfield's persistent pressure of his minority report. But you knew all that before—everybody knows it!"

REPUBLICAN REJOICINGS.
PENNsylvania ARROUS.
(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)

MILFORD, Penn., Oct. 14.—The news of the Republican victory in Indiana and Ohio felt like a thunderbolt in Erie, the banner Democratic county of Pennsylvania. The Democrats are utterly disheartened and disgusted; Republicans are in their happy mood. Large Republican gains may be expected in Pike County between now and the November election.

ENTHUSIASM AT JOHNSTOWN, N. Y.
JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Johnstown was all ablaze to-night. One hundred guns were fired, and a band played through the streets, which were filled with people. The city was all on fire, and the people were all on fire.

A JUBILEE IN NEWARK.
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 14.—The Hon. Cortland Parker, of Newark, spoke to a large audience here to-night, 1,000 people being present. Fireworks, music and salutes testified to the general joy over the Indiana and Ohio elections.

GENERAL GRANT TO VISIT VERMONT.
MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 14.—General Grant has decided to visit this State week after next, and arrangements are making for his reception.

HONORS FOR GENERAL GRANT.

ENTERTAINED IN THE BAY STATE.
AN ADDRESS AT THE MIDDLESEX CLUB BANQUET—VISITING PLACES OF HISTORICAL INTEREST—A FEW WORDS TO PLYMOUTH SCHOOL CHILDREN—WARMLY WELCOMED EVERYWHERE.

At the banquet in Boston, given in honor of General Grant by the Middlesex Club, addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers. General Grant was enthusiastically received. He spoke of the character of the people of the Nation. Yesterday he went to Plymouth, where he visited various places of historical interest, and afterward spoke briefly to the school children, paying a graceful compliment to the school system of New-England. At many stations along the road addresses were made by General Grant, ex-Governor Rice, Governor Long and others. References to politics were avoided by the speakers